

PROBLEM STATEMENT

Many USC students leave lights, laptops, or lab equipment running when not in use, wasting energy and raising electricity costs. Without a convenient way to track or be reminded of energy consumption, it's easy to overlook sustainability. A smart reminder app or campus energy tracker could encourage students to form energy-saving habits and make sustainability a part of daily campus life.